Six-Month Moratorium On New Pot Businesses Continued

By Amber Marra The Enterprise

No new marijuana businesses will be permitted in Klickitat County's unincorporated areas until a six-month moratorium lapses or is called off by county commissioners.

The moratorium on all businesses attempting to obtain licenses through Initiative 502, which legalizes the production and sale of recreational marijuana, applies to unincorporated areas and was unanimously passed by the Klickitat County Board of Commissioners at its regular meeting on Dec. 16.

Klickitat County's incorporated areas include White Salmon, Bingen, and Goldendale.

This is the second time Klickitat County has imposed a moratorium on marijuana businesses, the first of which was lifted on Dec. 17, 2013. After hearing from concerned residents and seeing how I-502 operated for the last year, county commissioners came to the conclusion that another moratorium is needed in order to allow the County Planning Commission to develop ordinances regarding land use concerns that have arisen.

"The Board of County Commissioners adopted the moratorium to halt the establishment of new marijuana production, processing, and retail facilities in unincorporated areas of Klickitat County, in order to allow time to determine how to address the local impacts from such facilities," according to a press release provided by the county when the new moratorium was originally enacted reads.

According to the county's press release, the policies that could be adopted include requirements that I-502 businesses provide notice to nearby property owners, determination of factors that might decide if a marijuana facility is incompatible with other uses in a certain area, or restrictions to "protect the public's health and safety."

During that first moratorium, the County Planning Department had recommended allowing licensed marijuana growers and processors to operate in General Rural and Extensive Agriculture zoning districts, or on a minimum of five acres, and to direct the planning commission to develop recommendations for the regulation of growing and processing in other zones and of retail sales in unincorporated areas, but the board chose not to act on that recommendation at the time, according to the Dec. 26, 2013 edition of The Enterprise.

The Washington State Liquor Control Board (LCB), which governs all applications for I-502 licensing, lists all applicants on the LCB Web site's "Frequently Requested Lists" page at www.liq.wa.gov/records/frequently-requested lists. The lists are updated every Tuesday.

As of Dec. 9, the LCB listed 35 applications for marijuana production licenses in Klickitat County, 24 of which are pending, 11 of which are active. There are also 24 applications in for processor licensing, 15 of which are pending and nine that are active.

The LCB also lists eight applications for marijuana retail licenses, with three active. Of those active licenses, Stonehenge Cannabis in Murdock is the lone recreational marijuana retailer in an unincorporated area of Klickitat County. The LCB has also licensed Margie's Pot Shop in Bingen and Golden Dispensaries in Goldendale.

Despite those eight retailer applications, the LCB capped the number of retailers in Klickitat County at four, with one set for Goldendale and three throughout the rest of the county, but there continues to be no cap on how many growers or processors that can locate here.

That said, the newly instated moratorium does not impact those businesses that have already obtained licenses through the LCB and Klickitat County Building Department.

"Marijuana licensees who have not yet received a license from the LCB or have received LCB licenses but not submitted a complete application to the County Building Department for a building permit are prohibited from operating while the moratorium is in effect," the press release reads.

The decision to continue the moratorium was made following a public hearing held on Nov. 12 that drew passionate testimony from those who are opposed to marijuana businesses in general, license applicants who are in limbo due to the moratorium, and even those who currently hold a license to grow, process, or sell marijuana.

Book Review

by Judy Bane

Woman With A Gun

by Phillip Margolin

Stacey has moved to New York City from her quiet midwest town after winning a local award writing a brilliantly received short story. She takes a job as a receptionist in a huge law firm, thinking that she will have interesting people and events to observe and time to think about her next brilliant writing project, which will make her famous and her dreams come true.

The reality is a dull, monotonous daily grind with little time or energy to think about or work on a novel and a steady parade of dull, meaningless tasks and people. Her apartment is so small, she can almost touch both walls at the same time. She tries to experience as much of the local creative scene as she can and one day on a lunch trip to an art exhibit, she sees a photo that is so striking, she begins to build a story around it immediately. It is a picture of a young woman in a wedding dress, with her back to the camera, on a moonlit beach, with the waves just curling around her bare feet. And in her hand, behind her back, is a huge handgun, much like an old west outlaw would use.

She becomes so obsessed with the picture and the real story behind it, she quits her job, uses her savings to travel to the Oregon Coast, where the picture was taken years before in connection with a still unsolved murder and begins to try to trace the events that led up to the picture being taken. The story she discovers is a twisted tale of big egos, love gone wrong and bizarre events.

Phillip Margolin lives in Portland, Oregon and has written several mystery novels. I have enjoyed them all and I look forward to his next book.

John (Johnny) Edward Mattox

passed away at his home in Dallesport, Washington on December 24, 2014 at the age of 88. John was born to Pearl Edna (Bateson) and John Edward Mattox, Sr. in Estacada, Oregon on May 20, 1926. On April 24, 1944 he enlisted in the United States Navy and served until his honorable discharge in May of 1946. John married Alice Faye Schultz in Ruth, West Virginia on May 13, 1956. He worked for most of his career for SP&S/Burlington Northern railroad. Mr. Mattox was a member of Grange #87 and the American Legion. The decision was also originally slotted for a vote on Dec. 9, but was continued after Commission Chair-man Jim Sizemore said at the time that he wanted a full board present. Commissioner David Sauter was absent that day.

Before the final decision on the moratorium was made on Dec. 16, Sauter said he found that voters were closely divided after researching how the county voted on I-502 in 2012 and therefore a balance must be found between where marijuana businesses can and cannot locate.

“I suggest we keep the moratorium in place and send it to the Planning Commission because I’ve thought all along that there are places here where it is just not appropriate,” Sauter said.

Sizemore said at the beginning of the discussion about the moratorium that he wanted to see if I-502 would be brought up in the upcoming legislative session or if the state Supreme Court would hand down any decisions regarding to what extent county and local governments might have jurisdiction over marijuana businesses.

Sizemore also said that if he had it his way, no new marijuana businesses would ever be permitted in Klickitat County.

“My feelings are that I would like to ban any future marijuana growing, processing, or retail sales in the county, but we can’t do anything about those businesses that are vested,” he said. “I would like to keep the moratorium in place for six months so we can get word from the state Supreme Court on a final decision on this poorly written legislation.”

Scheduling conflict for the school cafeteria

The Children's Christmas party had a date change this year due to a double booking of venues for private parties. The party was held on a Friday instead of Saturday at the school cafeteria and all the school children attended. Unfortunately Santa Clause was not able to be there and photos were not taken. Despite that, the children all seemed to have a wonderful time and enjoyed their gifts and refreshments of ice cream, cookies, punch and candy. Many thanks to all the teachers who helped with this event.

Scammers Hitting Area With Phony IRS E-Mail Warnings To Pay Back Due Taxes

A new e-mail scam has begun terrorizing victims across the country, including in Klickitat County, according to some readers.

The scammer pretends to be from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). It reads as follows:

"Dear tax payer: Our records indicate insufficient information for your last tax payment. Carefully select the appropriate reason for your payment so that it will not be delayed.

"Delayed payments can result in penalties and interest. Information about payment types can be found.

"If you are making more than one type of payment or making payments for more than one tax year, submit each of them separately.

"The detailed file in pdf format of the report can be found here [a clickable link].

"Sincerely, Internal Revenue Service."

Experts at Watson CPA Group tell The Sentinel there are several clues in the e-mail that betray its inauthenticity. "First, the IRS never contacts you unless you have an ongoing relationship about a specific matter," the Group says, "and the IRS never emails you. They can barely process an amended tax return, let alone send emails with any kind of precision."

A close review of the e-mail suggests other issues. "There are two problems," the Watson Group tells us, beginning with the misspelled "Sincerely" at the end of the message. "First, the IRS is not sincere. Second, if the IRS were sincere, they would probably know how to spell it, among other horrible typos. All kidding aside, be careful!"

Project Keep Warm

Project Keep Warm is asking the community for homemade and store purchased hats and scarves for the children of Head Start in the Gorge and area elementary students. The hats are collected year-round and distributed each fall. Yarn to make hats and scarves and volunteers to create them are also needed. All supplies will be provided to volunteers who would like to donate time to making the items. Those interested in donating are encouraged to call Sue at 541-0298-2937 or 541-340-9971.

Counterfeit Bills Passed In Area Businesses

Phony $100 bills have turned up in Goldendale and other parts of Klickitat County in the past two weeks.

One bar and one grocery store in Goldendale have each been hit with the counterfeit bills. A store in Roosevelt appears to have one as well.

None of the locations is speaking on the record about its experience presently, and no suspect has been identified or apprehended.

The Sentinel made contact Monday with the FBI about the bills and was referred to the Secret Service, which as a branch of the Treasury Department handles counterfeit money investigations. No response was obtained from the Secret Service by press time. Reprinted with permission from the Goldendale Sentinel
