Book Report

By Judy Bane

"Inside the Obriens" by Lisa Genova

From award-winning, New York Times best-selling author Lisa Genova comes a powerful new novel that does for Huntington's disease what her debut Still Alice did for Alzheimer's.

Joe O'Brien is a 44-year-old Boston police officer from the Irish Catholic neighborhood of Charlestown, Massachusetts. A devoted husband, a proud father of four children in their 20s, and a respected, seasoned law enforcement officer, Joe begins experiencing bouts of disorganized thinking, uncharacteristic temper outbursts, and strange, involuntary movements. He initially attributes these episodes to aging and the cumulative physical and psychological stress of his job, but as these symptoms worsen, he agrees to see a neurologist and is handed a diagnosis that will change his and his family's lives forever: Huntington's disease.

Huntington's is a lethal neurodegenerative disease with no treatment and no cure. And it is genetic. Each of Joe's four children has a 50 percent chance of inheriting their father's disease, and a simple blood test can reveal their genetic fate. While watching their potential futures in their father's escalating symptoms, the children struggle with the questions this test imposes on their young adult lives, including his youngest, 21-year-old Katie. Does she want to know? What if she's gene positive? Can she live with the constant anxiety of not knowing?

As Joe's symptoms worsen, and he's eventually stripped of his badge and more, he struggles to maintain his identity and sense of purpose. How can he find hope in a situation that feels hopeless? How can he find courage without any armor or weapons? What else might he be able to pass down to his children other than a fatal disease? Where is the honor in living and dying with Huntington's?

Community Council Corner

By P.J. Sisseck

Council Report for October 12, 2017

Commissioner Dave Sauter came to present his yearly update on the workings of the Board of County Commissioners. As in every October, the county budget of +/- $45 Million dollars is being stretched every direction that is possible. The proposed figures should be out by now on the County website at www.klickitatcounty.org.

Public comment is being accepted.

About 50% of the county budget is now dedicated to roads, for maintenance and operations. Due to projections of another hard winter, preparations are underway to face whatever comes along.

Questions were asked about the future of wind-generation of electricity. Roughly one third of the tax revenues supporting the county coffers do come from this source, a sort of indirect tax to the rate-payers. The current capacity for power transmission is full according to BPA, so plans are in place to begin adding to this.

Further questions about the Regional Airport, recycling, Urban Growth Boundaries, the Gun Range, future incorporation of Dallesport, Perched Wetlands, and other issues were handled quite well by Mr. Sauter. The Council gave him a vote-of-confidence (along with a reminder that we do vote).

Please join us for the next Council meeting on November 9th. 7pm at the Dallesport Community Center.

The Patriot Award

Volunteers Ralph Lunberg and Mary Miller representing the Employer Support for Guard and Reserve (ESGR) presented Economic Development and Natural Resource Director Dave McClure with "The Patriot Award" as nominated by Marine Corps Staff Sergeant/Economic Development Specialist Richard Foster for the tremendous support and accommodation for Mr. Foster's service in the Reserve. The ESGR is a program through the Department of Defense that develops and promotes supportive work environments for Service members in the Reserve Components through outreach, recognition, and educational opportunities that increase awareness of applicable laws, and resolves employment conflicts between the Service members and their employers. Along with his application, Mr. Foster stated, "Mr. Dave McClure's active support of the military is in keeping of the highest of traditions of our country. His level of dedication is a positive reflection of Klickitat County, both as a community, and as an employer."

Get Your Home Winter Ready

Winterize your home to extend the life of your fuel supply by insulating walls and attics, caulking and weather-stripping doors and windows, and installing storm windows or covering windows with plastic

Winterize your house, barn, shed or any other structure that may provide shelter for your family, neighbors, livestock or equipment.

Clear rain gutters; repair roof leaks and cut away tree branches that could fall on a house or other structure during a storm.

Maintain heating equipment and chimneys by having them cleaned and inspected every year.

Insulate pipes with insulation or newspapers and plastic and allow faucets to drip a little during cold weather to avoid freezing; Running water, even at a trickle, helps prevent pipes from freezing.

All fuel-burning equipment should be vented to the outside and kept clear.

Keep fire extinguishers on hand and make sure everyone in your house knows how to use them.

Learn how to shut off water valves (in case a pipe bursts)

Insulate your home by installing storm windows or covering windows with plastic from the inside to keep cold air out.

Carbon Monoxide Safety

Never use a generator, grill, camp stove or other gasoline, propane, natural gas or charcoal-burning devices inside a home, garage, basement, crawlspace or any partially enclosed area. Locate unit away from doors, windows and vents that could allow carbon monoxide to come indoors.

TRIAGE

Hello and welcome to the first of many articles of the Triage where we will discuss what is occurring at Klickitat County Emergency Medical Services District No. 1 (KCEMS District) and pre-hospital health care in our service area. Allow me to start with a little background

I am Dave Lapof, the new Manager for the EMS District. I was hired July 1, 2017 after a thorough process by the District Board of Directors. This was the culmination where years ago each hospital, Klickitat Valley Health and Skyline Hospital each ran their own ambulance service. A number of years ago Hadassah Management Services (HMS) overseen by Mark Bryan who took over the management of the ambulance operations for both hospitals as a 3rd party contractor and did an outstanding job of providing emergency pre-hospital care to the county and keeping the system running smoothly.

Following the Boards strategic planning process, the next step was to hire a manager and make the District the sole employer and operator of the system. The time line set for this is January 1, 2018 at which time KCEMS District will be the sole operator and employer of pre-hospital care across our county.

What will this mean to you? Our goal is to make it be invisible to you in the delivery of services. Virtually all of the current employees of HMS will be continuing their work as normal, as employees of the District.

We are also in the process of sending one of our ambulances up to the manufacture to be remounted. This essentially means they remove the box (module) from the old chassis and put a new chassis under it. Also with some minor modifications and electrical work we save almost $50,000 over the cost of a new one. We hope to have this vehicle back in service by January of 2018.

You will also see us offer more community programs; CPR class for both adult and students, community first aid class and other preventive programs as it relates to our main focus of pre-hospital care and your health.

I should explain the title to this and future articles. The word triage is French for the sorting of patients according to their urgency and the need of their care.

It is in fact what your EMS crews perform on every call for service. We assess, evaluate and determine the best course of action and treatment. The woman and men of KCEMS District do this efficiently and with the best training possible.

We will keep you informed of other developments and changes as we move forward to provide you the best service with the resources at our disposal.

Dave

Dave Lapof, has been involved in emergency services since 1988, starting his career as a volunteer on Lummi Island in Whatcom County, and served 20 years as a volunteer firefighter in both Washington and Oregon, before becoming a chief officer for the past seven years

He can be contacted at davelapof@gmail.com or 541-272-1958 and encourages everyone to visit the Districts Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/KCEMSD1/>

Railroads, Gorge Officials Begin Dialogue

By Jesse Burkhardt

Representatives of the two major railroads that operate in the Columbia River Gorge and government leaders from around the area met on Sept. 28 in an effort to bridge communication gaps amid recent controversies.

In a "listening summit" that stretched over six hours at the Columbia Gorge Interpretive Center in Stevenson, railroad officials from Union Pacific (on the Oregon side of the Columbia River), and BNSF (on the Washington side), met with local mayors, county officials, and other community leaders to discuss a variety of issues. Nearly 40 people attended the session, which was not open to the public.

Darren Nichols, who previously served as executive director of the Columbia River Gorge Commission, helped organize the meeting and acted as its mediator.

"This was to get the organizational ball rolling," explained Wasco County Commissioner Rod Runyon. "I would say that there was a bit of skepticism in the room, but all in all it turned out to be as billed, a listening session."

"The railroad officials wanted to hear from us our suggestions for better communications, and so for six hours they got to listen, and it was very interesting," said The Dalles Mayor Steve Lawrence.

Lawrence and Runyon were among the participants, and both said they thought the gathering was positive.

"We talked about everything A to Z, and there will be another meeting after they have reviewed all of the suggestions and complaints," Lawrence said. "I think Darren (Nichols) did a great job of saying, 'be respectful but also be clear' in what you want."

Runyon said there was a strong representation of leaders from communities around the Gorge.

"The meeting was conversational and well attended by a variety of local government entities from both sides of the river and several representatives from the Tribes," Runyon said. "The meeting appeared to be the beginning of a dialogue."

According to Runyon, all the participants were specifically invited. Those attending had their concerns written down and placed on large sheets of papers that were taped to the walls.

"Those questions may form the structure of a future meeting, if this format continues," Runyon said.

Lawrence presented two key issues he wanted railroad officials to address: the odors from the AmeriTies tie plant in The Dalles, and safety concerning hazardous shipments through the Gorge.

"One of the things I brought up again was this issue with the tie plant," Lawrence said. "The plant says the minute the ties hit the ground, they belong to the railroad and they can't move them until the railroad wants to. So I said again, why don't you find a place to get them out of here instead of having them sitting in the sun?"

Lawrence tied his question about the safety of transporting hazardous materials to the Union Pacific oil train derailment in Mosier in June 2016.

"We learned during the Mosier experience that when you have an oil fire like that, you can't just put foam on it to put it out, you have to put water on it first to cool it off or the foam will not work," Lawrence explained. "OK, that's great when you're in Mosier, Hood River, or The Dalles where you have access to water, but tell me what you're going to do if you're halfway between Hood River and Cascade Locks. I want to know where your water is; I want to know your response time; I want to know where your foam is; I want to know what your plan is."

According to Lawrence, railroad officials will schedule another meeting later this year to address questions and concerns raised at the initial meeting.

"We'll see what they come back with," Lawrence said. "One of the things they said at the end of the meeting I thought was interesting - 'a lot of these problems are solvable.'"
